

Summer Mission Trips ~ 2008

Youthworks! is a phenomenal organization. I have been on several trips using this group and each one holds a special place in my heart. You have a chance to meet new people, serve in a unique setting, and experience something special. So, what can you expect if you come? Well, that would take some time to explain, but here are the basics.

We will be serving on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in South Dakota. We will arrive to our site where we will be staying on Sunday. There is usually three to four other church groups from around the country who will be there as well. In total, there will be about 75 us. You will become family.

After our orientation on Sunday, we head out on Monday morning to serve. Our time of service will comprise a variety of events from home repairs, to leading a Kid's Club, all the way to assisting local ministries in the area. Be open to new things and be flexible. We will serve the community each day from Monday through Thursday. At the end of each day, we come back to our site and prepare for an evening adventure. These are so fun, but I don't want to spoil any surprises.

Friday, we clean up and say our "good byes." I know it's hard to believe, but you will make some really cool friendships in those few days together. As we take off, our plan is to visit Mount Rushmore, as well as, stop by Wall

Drug on our journey home. There will be some other pit stops along the way which will break up the trip and have us home safely on Sunday.

Change the world and get ready for God to do something powerful in you, around you, and through you. Don't believe me? Come check it out for yourself.

Interested in something with an international taste and/or just want to really get physical in your service to others? Juarez, Mexico, may be the place for you. With a pile of materials, 3 1/2 days of sweat, and some great teamwork, you can take part in actually building a home from scratch for a family who has next to nothing.
